ABSTRACT

The third edition of a New Jersey inventory of degree programs and options available within the state is presented. It includes two types of program offerings: (1) full programs which terminate in formal awards conferred by colleges and universities and (2) options/concentrations for study within programs. It is a compendium of the numerous subjects that can be studied leading to a degree or award from New Jersey colleges and universities. Programs at all schools that submit reports on degrees and awards conferred are included. All programs and options are approved for veteran training. The inventory is generated from a computer file that is updated annually. All programs and options listed are assigned a six-digit code chosen from "The Classification of Instructional Programs" manual of the Center for Education Statistics, U.S. Department of Education. The inventory is organized into three sections: (1) six reference tables defining various classification systems used to characterize programs and options which are offered in New Jersey institutions of higher education; (2) the inventory of degree programs and options organized by institution; and (3) the inventory of degree programs and options organized by major field of study. Tables are included. (SM)

MEMORANDUM

TO: Recipients of the "Inventory of Degree Programs and Options Offered by New Jersey Institutions of Higher Education"

FROM: T. Edward Hollander, Chancellor

I am pleased to present the 1987 Inventory of Degree Programs and Options Offered by New Jersey Institutions of Higher Education. It is a compendium of the numerous subjects that can be studied leading to a degree or an award from New Jersey colleges and universities. Programs at all schools that submit reports on degrees and awards conferred are included. All programs and options are approved for veterans' training.

A wide variety of people will find this publication useful. Current and prospective students seeking to learn where particular programs are offered, as well as guidance counselors who may assist them, will find their search facilitated. Also, it will be a valuable reference manual for institutional and state-level planners in the higher education community since it enables the quick retrieval of summary information on specific programs (e.g., the number of degree programs offered in a specific subject or the number and location of colleges where certain subjects can be studied).

The inventory has been generated from a computer file that is updated annually. This edition incorporates new programs, nomenclature changes and program discontinuances approved prior to October 1, 1987. We anticipate a triennial publication of the inventory; however, an updated version will be produced annually for distribution to selected agencies. Please telephone the higher education hotline (800-962-INFO) for current information on degree program offerings as needed.

We welcome your comments and suggestions for improving future publications of this inventory.

1987 INVENTORY OF DEGREE PROGRAMS AND OPTIONS OFFERED BY N.J. INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

PREFACE

This is the third edition of the New Jersey Department of Higher Education's "Inventory of Degree Programs and Options Offered by N.J. Institutions of Higher Education" (as of September 1987). It is an updated version of the second edition, published in 1984. Two types of program offerings are included in this inventory: full programs which terminate in formal awards conferred by colleges and universities, and options/concentrations for study within programs.

(1) The full programs include those which lead to degrees (such as A.S., B.S., Ph.D., etc.), as well as to other awards (such as diplomas and certificates).

In most cases, approval by the Board of Higher Education (B.H.E.) of both the program title and degree designation is required. Public colleges and independent colleges founded after 1887* are required to obtain B.H.E. authorization for all degree programs. Certificate programs at the county community colleges must be approved by the Curriculum Coordinating Committee (a seven-member committee comprised of term-appointed community college presidents and deans of academic affairs). Approval constitutes departmental recognition of such programs, although the Committee may recommend that the Board of Higher Education approve certain certificate-granting programs.

(2) Options and concentrations include specific areas within a degree program where focused study is sanctioned. For example, a degree program in Business Administration might include options in Accounting, Marketing, and Personnel Management. Consequently, the options which are listed as available in public four-year institutions and independent institutions are self-reported. Listings of options in community colleges are less likely to be incomplete because approval by the Curriculum Coordinating Committee is required.

Throughout this document the name of each option is followed in parentheses by the degree title and program name (often abbreviated due to space limitations). For example, an option listed , 'Sociology (A.S. Liberal Arts)' indicates that the college offers concentrated study in 'Sociology' as an option to its associate in science (A.S.) degree program titled 'Liberal Arts'.

*B.H.E. approval is not required for programs offered by the following independent institutions: Centenary College, Drew University, Princeton University, Saint Peter's College, Seton Hall University, Stevens Institute of Technology, Beth Medrash Govoha, New Brunswick Theological Seminary, and Princeton Theological Seminary.

All programs and options have been assigned a 6-digit code chosen from "The Classification of Instructional Programs" (CIP), a manual published by the Center for Education Statistics, U.S. Department of Education. These numeric codes and corresponding program titles (referred to as HEGIS titles) are 'Reference Table F' in this inventory. They are utilized to report national data. There are three levels at which programs can be aggregated when these 6-digit codes are used. Consider a specific program called 'Specific Learning Disabilities', coded 131011:

(1) Fifty broad HEGIS program categories exist and are specified by the first 2 digits. In the example, the first 2 digits (13) identifies the category 'Education'.

(2) In most categories there are two or more program groupings identified by the second 2 digits. Thus, the first 4 digits assign the program to a group within a category. In the example, 1310 indicates the program is assigned to the 10th group ('Special Education') of the 13th category ('Education'). Some categories have a single group.

(3) Specific titles for major field of study are identified by the last 2 digits of the code. In our example, 'Specific Learning Disabilities' (code 131011) is one of the majors defined under 'Special Education' (group 10) in the 'Education' category (category 13).

This inventory is organized in three sections.

Section 1 contains six reference tables that define various classification systems used to characterize the programs and options which are offered in New Jersey institutions of higher education. Refer to 'Reference Table E' or 'Reference Table F' to determine a program's code.

(1) Reference Table E is an alphabetical index of program titles with corresponding codes.

(2) If you are interested in similar programs within a general area, consult Reference Table F which is a numerical-ordered listing of major field of study categories with corresponding codes.

Section 2 presents the inventory of degree programs and options organized by institution. Locate page numbers for each college in the Table of Contents. The format for information provided on each institution is as follows:

(1) Programs are first organized into degree levels, ranging from the lowest (Pre-Associate) to the highest level (First-Professional). Options are listed separately below the appropriate degree level (e.g., options of associate degree programs follow the Associate programs, options of Bachelor's degree programs follow the Bachelor's programs, etc.).

(2) Within each degree level, programs are listed alphabetically. The list includes the HEGIS group title and code for each program.

Section 3 presents the inventory of degree programs and options organized by major field of study categories. The listings are numerically ordered, by the 4-digit group code. Where groups contain several distinct majors, the specific major title is shown in parentheses and the programs are listed next to the title. College programs leading to degrees and other awards are categoriezed and listed in the following order:

Pre-Associate Certificates
Pre-Associate Diplomas
Associate Degree Programs (ordered by A.A., A.S., A.A.S., etc.)
Options of Associate Programs
Bachelor's Degree Programs (ordered alphabetically by degree)
Options of Bachelor's Programs
Master's Level Programs (ordered alphabetically by degree/award)
Options of Master's Programs
Doctoral Level Programs (ordered alphabetically by degree/award)
Options of Doctoral Programs
First-Professional Degree Programs.

It should be noted that there are instances where certain program titles or areas are included in 'Reference Table E' and 'Reference Table F' (which are intended to be all-inclusive), but are not listed in Section 3 because they are not offered by a New Jersey institution of higher education. For example, 'Optometry' and its corresponding group code (181201) is in the alphabetical index provided as 'Reference Table E', and is appropriately listed in 'Reference Table F' (Code 181201), yet it does not appear under 'Health Sciences' (category 18) in Section 3 because no program in Optometry is available in New Jersey.
